The following graph displays different examples of supply chain and transportation costs. The green line is an example of parcel shipping as a function of weight, but the one I want to focus on is the blue line that dives into the negative.

This is a visual display of allocating fixed costs where inventory has a large order size. You will see this when working with items such as a truck holding pallets. The more pallets, the more

Today I was able to finally have my friend and mentor recognize my accomplishments with Hiring Our Heroes Military Spouse Professional Network in South Korea. Lt Col Megan Luka has been a big supporter of military spouse employment and professional development both of #military members and their spouses. I'm honored that my team won "MSPN Network of the Year 2021" and that Col Luka was able to present my award publicly. ...see more

“A provision quietly passed in the sweeping defense spending bill in December will for the first time allow cadets at U.S. military academies to have children.

Since the 1950s, military policy has barred cadets from being a parent, with violators facing the threat of expulsion and the repayment of school loans.
